Buffalo Lake Opens Sunday

Naval Officers Will Take Part in Big Celebration To Be Staged at the Lake

The Navy is sending a large number of Aviation Cadets for the opening of Buffalo Lake Friday and Saturday.

Ensign Jack Crane, former All-American fullback of the University of Texas, will be in the delegation from Dallas, which will be headed by Lt. Ralph Binnion, Lt. Jack Sisco and Lt. John Pierce.

The Naval officers will be judges of the boat races which will be held during the two-day celebration.

Festivities will begin Saturday night with a Naval Ball in the lake's recreational building honoring both Navy and Army officers. The dance is open to the public and Concessionaire Jim Golding, recently enlisted in the Navy, has announced proceeds will be given to the Navy Relief Society.

All entertainment with the exception of the dance will be free to the public and no admission charge is ever made to the popular government spa.

In addition to the Navy program and boat racing there will be diving and swimming exhibitions, fishing, motorboat rides, water skiing by Bascom White, another Navy volunteer from Amarillo and West Texas Skii champ, and many other nautical highlights designed for out-door lovers.

Light Rain Is First Received in Nearly Month

The frist rain in almost a month fell yesterday morning. But the moisture amounted to only .10 of an inch in Canyon.

Grain prospects have been greatly reduced by green bugs and the continued dry weather during April and May.

Some of the wheat is looking fine, but the bugs have done considerable damage over the county.

Oats and barley prospects have been greatly cut all over the county.

The temperature this month has been very low, in comparison to the hot weather which usually hits during the first part of May. Green bugs thrive with this cool weather.

Farmers believe that plenty of rain the balance of this month would be of great benefit to the wheat which has suffered by the bugs and dry weather.

There will be a large crop of grasshoppers this year, according to reports of farmers, but the grain is too far advanced for much damage to be done to these crops.

Texas is allotted 60 candidates per month for this training. Dr. Freed and Mr. Butler are in the Speech Department of West Texas State.

Other West Texas State men have taken the examinations for officer training but no report has been received on their cases.

According to a telegram from Al Baggett Monday, Leslie Van Meter will be called by the army for the physical education program within a week. Mr. Van Meter has been accepted by both the army and navy for this work and will likely go to the branch which first calls him.

637 Men Were In the Fourth Registration

Randall county has 637 men of the 45-64 age group.

The local board numbered all of the registration cards yesterday and found that this was the total of the 4th registration on April 27.

On registration day there was a total of 545 men here, but since that time 92 cards have been received. These cards have come in from various states of the union. Several cards were received this week.

It is not contemplated that any of the men in this age group shall be called into military service. However, it is certain that occupational questionnaires will be sent to all of this age group so that the government may call upon any man it is found necessary for non-military or defense jobs.

There will be no order numbers for this group, and they will go by the serial number which was assigned yesterday as the cards were drawn.

Bond Sales Are Nearing Quota For Month May

War Savings Bonds bond sales amounted to $5,305 during the second period of May, according to announcement yesterday by R. H. Wright, county chairman. The ottal for May has now reached $9,898.75.

The quota for May is $13,900. The purchases for the balance of May must amount to $4,001.25 in order that the quota be reached, states Mr. Wright.

Randall county has maintained its quota for the year, and indications are good that this quota will be met.

Through this span of time, the case became full of trophies won by

Seven Casings Stolen Here Friday Night

Cameras, Clothing and Casings Make the Largest Haul Taken By Thieves

Seven casings were taken from cars Friday night, and clothing and cameras were taken from the cars, according to Sheriff M. E. Cantrell.

Ernest Dillon lost three casings from his two cars. One of the cars was broken open and cameras and equipment was stolen. Mr. Dillon travels for a camera supply house.

One casing was stolen from the R. A. Hodges car.

One casing was taken from the Oscar Evans pickup.

An A. & M. student was staying with friends and lost two casings and clothing from his car.

This is the biggest haul that has ever been made by tire thieves in Canyon. Officers have made a search of all tire houses in the Panhandle but so far none of the missing property has been located.

Extra Sugar May Be Secured for Canning Season

Five extra pounds of sugar for canning purposes will be given each holder of a sugar ration book. Application must be made at the local Ration Office and a certificate issued which will allow the holder to secure the sugar.

Those applying must bring their sugar ration book. The certificates are taken to the grocer for the extra ration of sugar. All of the sugar must be taken from the grocery store at one time.

This extra amount of sugar may be secured only once annually. Citizens are advised not to apply for the extra sugar or to buy the sugar until they are ready to use it. Those not wishing to can strawberries at the present time should wait until other fruits are on the market before applying for the canning sugar.

Randall county signed up 7503 people for sugar ration books, according to T. S. Stevenson, clerk of the local board.

Judge E. C. Nelson overruled the motion for a new trial in the case of W. D. Muncy vs. the State of Texas, and closed the April term of court Tuesday.

The jury refused to give Muncy damages in his plea for negligence on the part of the highway commission when his farm was flooded last year.

Summer Session Fits War Plans

High School Graduates To Be Urged to Start Work On Their College Course

With a broadened curriculum, including more than 30 wartime courses, the summer session at West Texas State College will open next Wednesday, May 27. This term has been lengthened to permit approximately one-half year of work to be done in fifteen weeks.

The first term of nine weeks will close on July 25, and the second term of six weeks will be held July 27 through September 5. During the first summer term the normal load will be three courses of three semester hours each, and for the latter period, three courses of two semester hours each or two courses of three semester hours each will be the normal load. However, senior and exceptional students will be allower to increase these loads.

The work has been speeded up so that high school graduates, who enroll for the summer session and attend continuously, may obtain degrees as early as February of 1945. Present sophomores and spring graduates of junior colleges may be graduated in the summer of 1943.

In addition to the regular course, the advanced work, and the graduate studies, defense courses will be offered in industrial arts, safety, first aid, home nursing, conversational Spanish, photography, map reading, business administration, radio, and other subjects, along with background courses in history, geography, government, and economics.

Other summer session features include visual education, traffic safety course, arts and crafts projects, conservation course, pilot training, and nursery school.

Many former teachers are planning to return to college to take "refresher" courses, preparing themselves to re-enter the profession.

Classes will meet six days a week, but there will be no classes or laboratory periods on Saturday afternoons. Copies of the summer program are available at the office of Dr. D. A. Shirley, registrar.

USO Drive Only About Quarter of County Quota

Only 25% of the USO quota of $675 for Randall county has been raised, according to W. A. Warren, county chairman.

Workers will canvas the business houses this week, states Mr. Warren. He has been assisted by several women who have devoted considerable time to meeting local citizens at the postoffice and soliciting funds.

The top contributions have been $10, stated Mr. Warren. There have been many $1 contributions, but these add up slowly in meeting the county's quota.

Dr. A. K. Knott is working at the college and J. B. Speer at the public schools. Mr. Warren hopes that Randall county citizens will make volunteer contributions this week so that the drive may be completed.

China Relief Fund Lacks Only $31.59

Randall county's quota for China Relief lacks only $31.59 of being complete.

County Chairman H. A. Brown has been urged by national headquarters to continue the drive until the full quota of $500 is raised. A final remittance awaits the raising of this small balance, states Dr. Brown.

The need of money is very urgent, as the Chinese are putting up a hard fight to hold the hords of Japs who are invading their country. Relief funds go to relieving the suffering among Chinese refugees who have lost their homes by the invasion of the Japs, and to take care of the sick and wounded Chinese soldiers.

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

"We are fighting Hitler, and not each other," screamed a headline the other day. Since the war started, there has been untold confusion and strife which has greatly hampered our war production. Many manufacturers remembered 1914-18 and sought to get rich off of this war; labor has fought for unreasonable wages, while the various unions fought each other, and labor racketeers have bled all who work; different departments of government have been so jealous of each other that war preparations are greatly handicapped; the tragedy of Pearl Harbor, brought about by the refusal of the army and navy to co-operate, has been carried down to date between the different branches of the service; even Congress tried to protect the members with pensions and other advantages, while passing laws to regulate out of business thousands of individuals who were patriotically trying to carry their load during the war. Has it ever percolated through the minds of our people that we can lose the war by such foolishness?

In 1914-18 the Kaiser told the German people that God was with them. Hitler now says that Germany will win because God is on their side. Sergeant York replies that America will win because we are on God's side. If all nations had been willing to listen to God during the past years, the lives of millions of men, women and children would not have been sacrificed in useless wars; peoples in some nations would not be starving; while those in other nations wallowed in surplus wealth; educational advantaages would have been opened to all peoples; poverty would not have been the fate of one nation, while waste prevailed in others; all men would have been free; happy and contented, instead of so many being enslaved, miserable and depressed. When men oppose the will of God and flaunt the laws of God, they bring degredation upon themselves and spread misery over those with whom they come in contact.

It took the war to make Americans sensible. Useless driving of cars is a great economic waste, but we sure have been having a lot of fun in burning up our savings. Business men have been engaged in many useless services because of keen competition. The people have been educated to the fact that business houses will wear out their trucks making uneconomical deliveries. There are millions of women in the nation who have insisted that delivery trucks run to their homes with small items four or five times daily. They should know that each delivery costs more than the article delivered—but you know, some folks don't care. The government insists that rubber and gasoline must be used on necessary deliveries; and the business man is confronted with the hard fact that when his delivery truck is worn out there is no chance for him to get another one during the war.

Ye Gods! how some folks like to wrap the mantle of holiness around their shoulders and praise their patriotism. A man boasted the other day about the thousands of dollars of War Bonds he had bought and how patriotic he considered this purchase. This man is worth a million or more dollars and could have given the government this amount of money for the protection he has enjoyed throughout his long life. But, buying War Bonds is not a gift. It is a good, sound investment, and this man knew he was putting his money in the soundest investment in the world. If these bonds are not safe, then his money is worthless, and his land and cattle are just so much trash. The least any American can do is to invest money in his government, with the assurance that this investment will protect him in his old age.

Remember how shocked Americans were only a few years ago when reports came that thousands of men and women were being slaughtered in Russia? It was reported that a large part of the top officers of the army faced Stalin's firing squad. It is now revealed that most of those killed were Hitler's 5th columnists, ready to sell out Russia to the brutal Germans. This scheme worked in France, Norway and other conquered nations. But Stalin was smart enough to kill off the undesirables in Russia before they overthrew his government. From the light of this record, it seems that Stalin was smarter than the rest of the nations. He played with the rattlesnake up until it was ready to strike him, and then turned to help slay the reptile.

We do not fancy the idea of compulsory buying of war bonds. It is true that many people who should buy bonds are not doing so, but on the other hand it is equally true that there are many people who simply cannot buy bonds. Every citizen who can, should invest in bonds. They are as safe as the government, and will pay a fair rate of interest. There is no chance of depreciation in value, as was the case of Liberty Bonds during World War I. Everything we have is due to the fine protection of our government in the past. What we hope to be in the future depends upon winning the war, and safeguarding our nation. Everyone who buys bonds should feel proud of his investment in the greatest nation on earth.

Selective Service authorities in Washington now demand that industry release young men in vital defense jobs and replace them with women. It is stated there are thousands of jobs in factories which can be more ably handled by women and are now being filled by able-bodied young men. Army and naval officers tell us that if the war goes another 18 months—and they expect it to go longer—war work will take in practically the whole population of men and women. Americans are beginning to realize that this is a war either of victory or extinction so far as we are concerned.

The senatorial race is on so far as Moody and Allred are concerned. So far O'Daniel has said nothing, except send his weekly canned campaign thunder to Texas radios to be run free of charge. Judging from the newspaper talk so far, it is the guess that Allred has the best of the campaign, and should lead the ticket in the frist primary. Whether O'Daniel will be able to nose out Moody is another question. Political observers believe that this is one campaign in which O'Daniel has lost his magic. However, in the light of past performances, it is too early to place any bets.

Texas received another signal honor when Mrs. W. P. (Oveta Culp) Hobby of Houston was appointed head of the newly organized women's army. Mrs. Hobby has accomplished much during her 38 years and her appointment is highly pleasing to hundreds of Texans who have observed her rapid rise. She was parliamentarian of the House while the Newsman was in the legislature, and she had the confidence of all members for her knowledge of law and parliamentary proceedings. Thousands of young women who want to get into war activities will welcome the opportunity offered in this new organization.

It is distressing to hear that liquor is freely distributed within easy distance of our army camps, and that many of our soldiers are partaking too freely. Such a condition brought about national prohibition in 1917. The nation has found that a return to legalize booze has not improved conditions, and has not solved all of our financial difficulties, as we were told by the wets. War brings out the daring in men, and away from home influences they become reckless and easy preys for the powers of darkness. National prohibition should be enacted as another necessary war measure.

Congress will raise the pay of soldiers and sailors. All Americans will approve this, but we are still unable to understand why a defense plant worker is entitled to $10 to $20 per day when our fighters will only draw $42 or $50 per month. However, we hope that Congress will make the provision that all of the increase shall be placed to the credit of the men and will be paid to them in bonds at the end of the war. When men are mustered out of service is the time when they need money more than at any other time in their lives.

Subs are sinking our ships faster than we can build them. Subs are operating within sight of our shores, even penetrating the Mississippi and St. Lawrence rivers. Hitler is showing us just how daring his subs can be. These subs are getting their supplies at some place near our shores. Our airplanes are searching every foot of the ocean, and some of these days the source of supply will be located, and then it will be too bad for the subs. However, until that day comes, Hitler is doing plenty of damage to our shipping, and there is nothing we can do about it.

More products are being piled up for our war machine and for our allies than our ships are able to deliver. Jurisdictional strife among the shipbuilders has strangled shipbuilding. Ask Admiral Land, whose job it is to build ships. He will tell you that here is the weakest point of our war program. It may be necessary to transport much of our war products by air.

The Pacific coast is expecting bombs during the latter part of May and first of June. Here's hoping that if the Japs make such an attempt, our bombers will be ready to strike back again at Tokyo. The Japs are said to still be jittery over one bombing, and are still wondering from what point our planes started.

Something that every American should realize—This is an all out war; either we win the war, or we become slaves to the dictators—there is no half-way mark.

A nation cannot be whipped so long as it maintains its devotion to country, to truth, and to God.

Farmer (after the land army volunteer has milked his first cow): "Well, you learned something new today."

Volunteer: "Yes, I learned that the man who says a cow gives milk is a liar."

"They say Sergeant Banks has won every decoration the Army offers. He must be one of the bravest men on earth."

"Oh, I don't know. Does he go to the dentist right away when he finds that a tooth needs filling?"

Judge: "And you call yourself a peace-loving man?"

Defendant: "I do, your Honor."

Judge: "Even after you slugged Casey on the jaw?"

Defendant: "Yes, your Honor. I never saw Casey so peaceful as just after I hit him."

It was at a musical comedy: "Why are all the men in the front rows baldheaded?" she asked.

"Because they bought their tickets from scalpers," he replied.

Harvard Gives Important Fossil To Museum Here

An important fossil of the acquatic reptile, Ichthyosaur, has been given to the Panhandle-Plains museum. It comes from the Harvard Museum of Comparative Zoology through Dr. Theodore E. White.

The announcement of the gift was made by Floyd V. Studer of Amarillo, curator of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society.

The fish-lizard reptiles lived in vast numbers during the Mesozoic period and varied greatly in size. Some reached a length of forty feet. They had large heads with as many as 400 conical teeth, and their necks were very short. Their feet resembled paddles or modified flippers. Fins and a long tail expanded in a vertical plane. In general, they resembled porpoises, or small whales.

These marine animals are not found in the Panhandle in the Triassic period excavations, although fossils of contemporary animals, the dinasaur and phytosaur have. They have been discovered chiefly in Europe.

"The specimen recently received at the Museum is one of our most important acquisitions and represents a worthwhile gift on the part of Harvard," Mr. Studer said.

"...Electricity is too important a public service to encourage or invite curtailment when it is unnecessary..."

J. A. Krug
Chief of the Power Branch of the Materials Division of the War Production Board

When you save rubber or sugar, tin and lead, they accumulate for war production . . .

BUT . . .

When you curtail your use of electricity none of it is saved so long as sufficient capacity is here to serve you.

Curtailment now simply means shutting down a power plant.

That's like telling a farmer not to milk his cows so as to save milk!

It is impossible to accurately predict future developments in war production. However, there is at present in this section of the country an ample supply of electricity, not only for war projects, but also for our industries, commercial establishments and homes. This is the result of hard work, careful planning for the future, and sound engineering, under American business management.

If and when a power shortage comes to this section of the country, we will be the first to know about it, and we will cooperate to the fullest in urging our customers to conserve electricity so that additional demands for new war purposes can be met.

One hundred twenty-nine senior voices rang out in recommendations which would fit the current trend in student thought. The recommendations were made by the president of the class, Garland Turner.

The annual Pi Omega loan fund was given to the college.

A light touch of comedy was added by an act of Jack Maddox and Ben Collins. The act was entitled: "Buffalo Brothers."

Each senior presented his cap to a junior friend and the recessional concluded the program.

Two outstanding members of the Senior Class, selected by faculty members, will have their names engraved on plaques provided by two campus social clubs.

A unique feature of the awards this year is that both went to a married couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Ward were selected as the most outstanding students in the Senior Class on a basis of character, scholarship, leadership, cooperation, and citizenship.

Quentin Ward will have his name engraved on the Epsilon Beta plaque. Next in line for the award was Jack Haley.

Mrs. Ozaline Ward received the Pi Omega award for being the outstanding girl.

Dr. D. A. Shirley, who made the presentations, noted that the top three girls had only one point difference when the check was completed. The other two girls were Laverna Evans and Nola Margaret Blue.

Each senior class presents the college with a gift as a token of appreciation for the pleasant student days spent on the campus.

The class of '42, the first class to graduate during World War II, will present a fund to the college to be set aside for a bronze plaque on which the names of the college dead will be engraved. Those students who will give their lives in the second world war will have their names before the future West Texas State classes as a constant symbol of the faith and devotion which they felt for their country. It is fitting that they should be remembered as were those war dead of the World War I.

Garland Turner, president of the Class of '42, prepared the following address for the assembly program:

"Our first consideration on Senior Day is to offer our thanks to the people who are responsible for our being here—our parents, the citizens of the state of Texas, and the founders and leaders of our school. To them we owe a debt of gratitude. May we ever be worthy of their faith and confidence which made it possible for us to be here today.

The class of '42 is facing a situation no other class has been confronted with for more than twenty years. In a chaotic world we are taking up our full load of responsibility. Perhaps we feel some sense of discouragement, but we have a task to do and we will not shirk our duty of offering our services whereever we can best serve to protect that which better men than we have died to give to us. In a war-torn world it is our prayer to serve our country to a victorious end so that we may return to our homes in peace and with the satisfaction of a job well-done and there to live in our Democratic way without fear of molestation from abroad.

Each year on Senior Day it is the tradition of W. T. that the Seniors make a summation of their impression of the school and its policies. This task is both a privilege and a duty. We do not profess to be able to tell the administration how to operate the school, but we do offer these suggestions in the hope that they will merit their consideration.

"It's Just As Well"

Our class has never in its four years at W. T. been very closely united, which is just as well, for had it been so it would only have added another individualistic group to the institution which is already top-heavy with such organizations. If the efforts spent in antagonistic action among the various campus cliques were diverted along one line toward some worthwhile end, it might be possible to accomplish more in school and it is certain that the ex-students would be more cooperative toward each other and toward the school. Many personal dislikes are formed here because of different affiliations which undoubtedly carry over after graduation. Some possible solution should be found for this problem.

Too Many Assemblies

The favorite complaint of students is "too many chapel periods." We felt that this is justifiable. Is the time spent in assembly of sufficient value to the students to pay for the loss of some one thousand potentially valuable man-hours at each assembly? We think not. The Senior Class recommends that only one assembly be held each week, that attendance be compulsory, and that this assembly be held on Tuesday.

Thanks to an alert publicity agent, a progressive building program, and excellent football and basketball teams, the college has received more publicity this year than ever before. This has and will continue to attract freshmen to this school. But we lose too many before they graduate. Perhaps if more emphasis were placed on scholarship and more effort was spent to interest them along those lines, a larger per cent of the freshmen would eventually graduate.

Hits Faculty Role

We object to faculty participation in student politics. In an advisory status, their services are appreciated, but active participation and personal manipulation are none of their concern. Derogatory comments aimed at individual and groups concerned certainly will not add to the respect held for the professor uttering them. We recommend that for their own personal benefit and for the good of the school that teachers of the school leave student politics out of their activities.

There was a mistake made in not preparing the college graduate to meet the war situation so as to be of more service, but that mistake was common to all schools. We cannot censor the school policy in that regard but we can urge that additional emphasis be placed on vocational skills and other courses that will be of use to prospective service men and war workers. Considerable has been done toward this goal and we recommend that in the future students be impressed with the necessity of participating in these courses. The war has proved the value of skilled hands as well as trained minds. We think that the freshmen enrolling in this school should have impressed upon him more strongly than has been done in the past, the importance of taking courses that will fit him to serve his country.

"Stay in College"

To the undergraduates we recommend that you remain in school as long as possible. To the men especially—remember that "he also serves who only stands and waits." You have heard representatives from all branches of service say that an education is your greatest assets in service of your country. Won't you heed their advice and prepare yourself for greater and better service. And to the women—since most of you are preparing for a teaching career, yours is as important a task as that of flying a combat plane. In your hands will largely rest the responsibility of carrying on with the schools. We charge you with the responsibility of training those children in our democratic way and instilling in them love for our country. Our task is to prove to the world that democracy is the best way of life.

Grateful to Faculty

To the faculty, we are deeply grateful for the guidance you have given us. There have been times when we have questioned your methods, your interest, or perhaps your ability. But we realize that perhaps the students were not the only ones that have occasionally been in a questioning frame of mind. To be human is to lack perfection and even though at times we have been critical, we are truly grateful for your help, your consideration, and your efforts to instill in us knowledge, ideals, and principles.

The word "Texas" is thought to have originally been an Indian inter-tribal watchword, probably meaning "friendship." Its first use is dated from the expedition of De Leon and Father Massanet in 1689. Before then, the land now comprising the state of Texas was known variously as Amichel, Florida, Apacheria, (Land of Apaches), Nueva Felipinas (New Philippines) and Quivira.

According to the most dependable records, the oldest missions in Texas were San Antonio de los Tiguas, 1682, later known as Nuestra Senora del Carmen, and San Miguel del Socorro, 1682, which was located a short distance southeast of El Paso.

John McCarty to Address Own Graduating Class May 24

Men of Class Going to Military Services—Half Of Girls Will Teach

Seniors of West Texas State will hear one of their number, John McCarty of Amarillo, when the commencement address is made on the evening of Sunday, May 24.

The College took note of the unusual fact that a distinguished newspaper man was in the Class of 1942, and he was prevailed upon to make the main address to his own class. Mr. McCarty, editor and associate publisher of the News-Globe, interrupted his college career to enter newspaper work in Amarillo. Later he won national honors as editor and publisher of the Dalhart Texan. When he returned to Amarillo a few years ago as editor, he began to take college courses in his spare time, visiting the campus as often as possible. Some of his class papers are outstanding studies of Panhandle social and economic conditions.

Men Going to War

The 1942 class numbers 134 degree applicants, according to the Registrar's last check. Of these, 33 are men. At least a dozen of these men are either enlisted in military branches or have their draft calls. As many others likely will be in a military branch within a year.

The average age of the men is 21.8 years and of the coeds is 21.2 years. Eight girls and seven of the men are married. Fifty per cent of the girls are planning to teach, at least for a time. Several girls and an undisclosed number of the men are engaged to be married.

Members Are Prominent

Vocational choices of the seniors include teaching, radio work, secretarial work, medical careers, seed growing, and government work. Members of the class have been prominent in speech activities, social clubs, journalism, music, sports, church work, home economics, and campus politics. Hobbies they pursue include reading, dancing, sports, photography, and collecting such things as stamps, poetry, postcards, glasses, ships, pictures, and bronze figures.

One of the best known members of the class is Frank Stockman of Malta Bend, Mo., who was captain of the "World's Tallest Team." Roy Cheatham of Panhandle has been Business Manager of The Prairie. Nola Margaret Blue of Hereford has won honors in music. Inez Franz of Quanah has had leading roles in many college plays. Viola Holmes of White Deer has been secretary to the dean of women for several years. From distant Puerto Rico came Ermelinda Irizarri, Beatriz Martinez, and Gloria Soto. Miss Irizarri will be present to receive her degree, but the others have returned to their island.

Athletes Included

The list of senior athletes includes Lee McLaury of Amarillo, J. Olin Reid of Abernathy, and J. P. Meek of Gageby. Garland Turner of Donie, president of the class, formerly was student president also. He managed the College Farm cooperative. Other officers of the class include La Verna Evans of Brisco, vice-president; and Melva Jo Conklin of Flomot, secretary-treasurer.

Marion Miller of Canyon was college personality queen as a sophomore.

College journalists finishing this year include Mr. Cheatham, Maxine Rattan of Amarillo, Dorothy Warwick of Canyon, and Lillian Brown of Canyon.

Weldon Bright has been prominent in music, especially in demand for his piano playing.

Mid Askew, Donald Hawkins, J. P. Meek, Louis Griffin, Dwight Howard and Bill Lofland, Jr. are already serving in military services.

A majority of members of the class are seeking B. S. degrees, and eleven are asking B. B. A. degrees, 28 seek B. A. degrees, and eight are candidates for M. A. degrees.

Fellow citizens, we cannot escape history. We of this Congress and this administration will be remembered in sipte of ourselves. We shall nobly save or meanly lose the last, best hope of earth.—Lincoln.

Mandatory Price Control on Equipment For Farms Will Regulate All Purchases

BY RALPH HERBERT

OF great importance to practically every farmer in the United States is an order issued by the Office of Price Administration and effective May 11, establishing the maximum retail prices for farm equipment.

These prices will be based on the manufacturer's suggested list prices, plus freight and handling costs. What has been sought has been a formula for determining the specific maximum prices at approximately the levels prevailing in March, 1942, when farm equipment dealers were operating under a voluntary price control program. The big difference is that now price control is mandatory.

With a universal price freezing order, special cognizance had to be taken of the farm situation. Farmers this year are estimated to have in sight a total income of $13,000,000,000. With many lines of consumer goods being withdrawn from the market, the farmers will have more money for the purchase of more farm equipment. Last year 34,500 retail dealers sold $950,000,000 worth of farm equipment. But this year the War Production Board is limiting production of this equipment to less than two-thirds of the 1941 figure.

IN regulating the retail prices of farm equipment, the OPA has stipulated that the dealer must give the purchaser an itemized invoice showing the manufacturer's suggested retail price, the freight charge, the handling charge and the sales tax, if any. Some dealers objected to this, saying their trade secrets might be revealed, but they were overruled, it being held that the itemized invoice would enable purchaser and government to know whether the price-fixing regulation was being obeyed.

The maximum price applicable to the retail sale of any new completed farm equipment for which the manufacturer has issued a suggested retail price will be the sum of the six following:

1—The suggested retail price f. o. b. factory.

Government regulations have established price ceilings on farm equipment, affecting every farmer in the United States. Production has been limited to two-thirds of the equipment made in 1941.

2—Allowance for transportation, calculated on the basis of the average combined freight rate per hundredweight from factory to dealer for complete farm equipment of the same general type.

3—The manufacturer's handling charge paid by the dealer, if not included in the manufacturer's charge for freight.

4—An allowance for dealer's handling not to exceed the sum of the following:

A—Five per cent of the manufacturer's suggested retail price f. o. b. factory up to $400, plus 2 per cent of the amount by which the suggested retail price exceeds $400.

B—For each truck trip required for delivery to a purchaser located more than 30 road miles from the dealer, 10 cents for each mile going and coming outside the 30-mile zones, on the basis of the most direct route. Certain reductions in this are to be made if the dealer does not erect the equipment, install the attachments, etc.

5—A charge for special installation of fixed equipment, not to exceed the charge customarily made on or before April 1, 1942. This charge shall take the place of and not be in addition to the allowance for dealer's handling.

6—The amount of any federal excise tax billed separately by the manufacturer and stated by him not to be included in the suggested retail price.

THE maximum retail price of farm equipment parts shall be the manufacturer's suggested retail price, plus actual freight cost from factory to dealer, and any extra expense in connection with the sale, such as long-distance phone calls incurred at request of the purchaser.

The maximum price applicable to the sale by the dealer of any trade-in equipment shall be the sum of the following:

The trade-in allowance or purchase price paid for such equipment, plus 5 per cent of such price, plus the maximum prices specified for such parts as are needed and used in reconditioning the equipment, plus a charge for the labor used in reconditioning.

Youth's First Duty-the War

Forty-Five New Voters Take Oaths Sunday As American Citizens

The immediate duty of American youth is to fight the battles of the current war through to victory, but equally difficult, perhaps, will be the efforts to win the peace that follows.

These thoughts were contributed by two college students here Sunday in the observance of "I Am an American" Day. Forty-five new voters, most of them students, took the oath of citizenship as administered by Judge E. C. Nelson of Amarillo.

Roy Cheatham, senior from Panhandle, stressed that each generation must earn the right to enjoy freedom. The keynote of democratic government, he said, is responsibility. General participation in the processes of self-government is necessary. He urged passage of laws which would set up minimum qualifications for office seekers. New voters of this age, he added, face the task of deciding world issues. But the outlook is thrillingly filled with opportunities for youth, he declared, and the new generation faces the future with high resolve.

Miss Inez Franz of Quanah, another senior, said the more than 2,000,000 new voters of this country are realizing, on attaining citizenship, that liberty is a precious thing and one which must be deserved. In this country, she said, "we entrust our heritage to the people." She called for a united defense of cherished freedoms.

Judge W. N. Stokes of Amarillo, justice of the Court of Civil Appeals, spoke on citizenship as a creator of institutions. He ridiculed the idea that any people has "pure blood" in the sense that it is a master race. This concept, he declares, implies that the state which could embrace a master race would be the master state. On the contrary, he said, the state should be the servant, not the master, of the citizen.

Judge Stokes stressed the importance of intelligent voting and willing jury service.

Dr. J. A. Hill presided at the New Voters Day program. The Buffalo Band played and patriotic songs were sung by the Buffalettes, a trio which includes Miss Louise Roach of Pauls Valley, Okla., Miss Jeanne Lively of Pampa, and Miss Meribelle Hazard of Pampa. Claude White directed the audience in the singing of "America."

The Rev. Joe E. Findley of the First Christian Church and the Rev. A. M. Dorsett of the First Presbyterian Church participated in the program.

Dr. S. H. Condron was introduced as the originator of the program in this area.

The largest group of Indians living in Texas at the time of the coming of the white man was the Caddo Tribe. The Caddos lived in permanent homes, tilled the soil and maintained a rather high state of culture.

The Indian Mounds of Northwest and East Texas and the Texas Coastal Plains show evidences of advanced culture of prehistoric Indians of Texas.

College Plan Gets Approval

Board of Regents Is Given Report Friday In Austin Session

West Texas State's new reorganization plan, previously authorized by the Board of Regents, was approved in detail at the Board meeting in Austin Friday.

This plan, to be effective September 1, will divide the institutions into Upper and Lower and Graduate divisions, and will sub-divide the Upper Division into schools of Liberal Arts, Education, and Business and Public Administrations. Deans were appointed to the divisions and chairmen to the schools.

Figures given for the current long session show a total enrollment of 1047 students and a present enrollment of 801, of whom 276 are men and 525 are girls. During the two semesters, 420 men and 627 girls have enrolled. Total enrollment is not quite 13 per cent under the previous session, which was the peak year of the institution. Most of the decline is directly attributed to the war. Of the total enrollment, 58.5 per cent has been in the Lower Division and 41.5 per cent in the Upper Division.

Signs of growth: When small Johnny loved soldiers, and Mary was crazy about painted dolls. Now that they are grown, Mary loves soldiers and Johnny is crazy about painted dolls.

Restaurant hostess Helen Couch, Excelsior Springs, Mo., has been chosen "Miss Vitamin" by a committee of prominent restaurant men. Blond and 20, Miss Couch prefers milk when she drinks a toast.

New Food Dress

New wartime uniforms for favorite brands of foods are made of glass. A simplified economy line of glass containers has been inaugurated for the duration. Fancy or unusually shaped glass jars and bottles have been eliminated. Smaller openings on the new jars save metal, cork, rubber, and paper used for closures.

Canyon Has Many Features of Which All May Be Proud

T. M. Moore was introduced as the speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon Tuesday by T. H. Knighton, who was in charge of the program. Mr. Moore spoke on "Community Pride."

"No community grows without a unity of thought and action," stated Mr. Moore. Many communities have as much to boast about as has Canyon, but do not take advantage of their opportunities. He urged Canyon people to capitalize on the advantages which we have.

Mr. Moore pointed to the "things of which I am proud."

The people were placed first. "Canyon has some of the finest people I have met," stated the speaker. There are many college towns which are not united and pulling together.

The pioneer spirit of this community keeps us young, and at the same time develops a progressive spirit. Canyon has "substantial people," stated Mr. Moore. He recalled the statements of former citizens who told of their reluctance to leave the town. This is an A-1 residential town.

The location is ideal, on the main highways; the best railroad in the nation; fine climate; splendid recreational facilities; a few miles from the metropolis of Northwest Texas.

Canyon is a town of churches and schools. A half million dollars are invested in church buildings; half of the people of Canyon attend school.

Canyon has an adequate supply of fine, pure water; a fine fire department; low tax rate; one of the best Mayors in the nation; 278 blocks of paving.

The postoffice is beautiful; the county library has 7,200 volumes; the hospital is one of the best in the state; The Canyon News is an outstanding newspaper; the milk supply ranks 5th in Texas and 82nd in the nation.

Two things make Canyon noted throughout the nation—the Museum, and the Buffaloes. More than 298,000 people have registered at the Museum from every state in the union and from many foreign countries. The Buffaloes have gained national publicity and are drawing many students here. The winning ability of the teams, and the creditable conduct are good advertisements for the college.

Visitors were: N. F. Nelson, E. Kancher, O. A. Thomas, all of Amarillo; Rev. Olie Brown of Fort Worth.

You can always trade the present for a bright future, if you are willing to pay the difference.
